Queens Connection

A Ridgewood jeweler who has made his name by making custom jewelry has another Queens guy to thank for his latest exposure.

Jordan Eddi has been picked by Donald's Trump's Taj Mahal in Atlantic City to make the champion's bracelet for the 2007 USPC Poker Championship.

For those in the competitive circuit, wearing a championship bracelet is akin to a Super Bowl or World Series ring – it (besides the money) is the ultimate goal.

"This is, by far, one of the highpoints of my career as a jewelry manufacturer," said Eddi, a 20-year industry veteran and poker enthusiast. "I am doing something I truly enjoy, and working with prestigious clients like the Trump Organization has been very exciting."

This is not Eddi's first foray into poker jewelry. Earlier this year he created a champ's bracelet for the Feather Falls casino in California.
